

FASHION for BOYS

When you think of boys, fashionable is usually not the first word that comes to mind. Most don't care if they've worn the same jeans four days in a row and hope that whatever t-shirt they pull off the floor is clean, or at least smells like it. Though there's not as many different clothes for boys as there are for girls, there are a few looks that boys can wear that go beyond shorts and a t-shirt. Here are some picks that can be added to your wardrobe to make it a bit more useful.

Sweaters will keep you warm all winter long. Turtlenecks, zip-ups, or really thick ones aren't itchy like you think and look uber-nice with jeans or khakis.

Every boy needs a pair of brown shoes and a pair of black shoes. Brown doesn't match black and black doesn't match brown. The next time you have to dress up, don't wear brown shoes with your black pants. It doesn't look good. Buy a pair of black shoes to go with your black outfits and a pair of brown shoes to go with your brown outfits. Don't mix them together.

Get nice pairs of pants; a pair of dark jeans without holes in them and a pair of khakis without the big cargo pockets. They both look nice with button ups, polos, and especially sweaters.

The easiest way to look dressed up is to throw on a blazer jacket. They're perfect for interviews, Honors Night, or a date. But if you have a black one, wear it with black shoes, and if it's brown, wear brown shoes.

Adding a few key pieces to your clothes selection will make your life easier as a boy for those times when you need to look extra good. So stop wearing the same jeans and t-shirts and take a little extra time to take care of yourself and your closet. - Katie Ehle
